Cohn Bros.

Year after year the firm of Cohn Bros. has been growing in public favor, and it is now one of the most prominent as well as most popular business houses in the city. It is exclusively a house where ladies goods are carried, and there is scarcely anything in the line of ladies dress articles, underwear or anything in that line which cannot be found in their stock. Cohn Bros. are also noticeable for another feature: there is no style of dress goods too expensive for them to carry in stock, as a look over their magnificent array of silks, satins, velvets, etc., will demonstrate; and at the same time there is no article of dress goods which is too cheap for them to handle. They aim to make their stock of dress goods and ladies' wear generally, as complete as it can be found anywhere, and any person who has gone through their heavily supplied establishment will be convinced that in this respect the enterprising Cohn Bros. have been eminently successful. At this season of the year especially, have they made the usual extra display, and it is such a one as surpasses all former efforts. Not only have they been to particular pains with regard to dress goods, but they carry a splendid stock of Christmas notions calculated to make beautiful and valuable presents, and the lady who can not be satisfied with a selection from their stock is all too difficult to please. A look at their display inside, and it is worth one's while, as a matter of pleasure, to enter and inspect; once inside, we question if you can leave without being tempted into a purchase of one of the many beautiful things they carry.

It is possible, however, he will go to St. Louis and even to San Francisco. According to telegrams received here, very extensive preparations are being made to receive him."

Burned at Sea.

San Francisco, 19.—The ship St. Nicholas arrived to-day from New York, having on board Captain Doughty and a portion of the crew of the British bark Lennox. The St. Nicholas reported that on October 17th, at 4 p.m., in 49° south and 62° west, she fell in with the Lennox, from Glasgow, with coal for San Francisco. The crew were discharging the cargo from the main hatch, and sending down water by means of the donkey engine and buckets, a dense volume of smoke rising from the main hatch. At the request of Captain Doughty, lay by her, and at 7 p.m. the flames rushed through the main hatch, ascending to the main yard. At 2 next morning the captain and crew, twenty-five in number, abandoned the ship, and went on board the St. Nicholas. Almost at daylight sighted the British bark Hildonan, from Liverpool for Valparaiso, and transferred ten of the men to her.

XLVII. CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE.

Washington, 19.—The bill by Harris, respecting the tenth section of the act to prevent the introduction of contagious diseases into the United States, was referred.

Consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was resumed. Plumb objected to Sherman's attempt to get the bonded spirits bill up.

HOUSE.

Washington, 19.—Butterworth, reported the army appropriation bill and will ask its consideration after the postoffice bill is disposed of.

The Speaker presented requests for leave of absence. Many objections were raised but several were granted.

Brown thereupon denounced yesterday's proceedings as a farce. After a warm debate the House, 127 to 101, agreed to take a holiday recess from December 22, to January 2d.

The House then proceeded with the introduction of bills for reference; then in committee of the whole considered the postoffice appropriation bill.

The civil service bill was laid aside and the Indian appropriation bill considered.

Beck's amendment to move the Crow Agency to some point east of the Big Horn River near Fort Custer was agreed to, and the bill passed.

The bonded liquor bill was considered.

San Mateo vs. Southern Pacific.

Washington, 19.—The argument on the San Mateo case began in the Supreme Court this afternoon. There was a large array of distinguished counsel present, among them is Attorney General Brewster, Attorney General Hart, of California, Senator Edmunds, Ex-Senator Conkling, Judges, Mr. Pomeroy, and Mr. Sanderson, of California. The court room was crowded with spectators. Judge Rhodes began the argument on behalf of San Mateo County, plaintiff in error. He gave a history of the action from the time it began in the superior court of California to recover taxes claimed to be due from the Southern Pacific for the fiscal year, 1881-2, down to the time of the decision in favor of the company in the circuit court, and the appeal to the Supreme Court. Rhodes said the defendants averred that the constitution and revenue laws of California, so far as they discriminated between private, corporation and national corporations one head and quasi public corporations on the other head to the advantage of the former and prejudice of the latter, violate that clause of the Fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States which declares no state shall deny to any of its citizens equal protection of the laws. The defendants claimed that they had the same right to demand exemption on taxation on mortgages as private individuals had. Mr. Rhodes gave a history of the systems of taxation under the old and new constitutions of California. The law of that state provides that all property and persons within its limits shall be taxed in proportion to its value. The object of the constitution was to make an equitable ad valorem system of taxation upon property, property includes money, credits, stocks, due franchises, and all other things real and personal and mixed, capable of private ownership. To avoid duplicate tax action. It was provided that mortgages, deeds of trust, contracts, or other obligations, should be separately assessed, but this was no deduction from the value of the property. The whole value is on the assessment list, but was divided into two parcels. The circuit court made a mistake in regarding the division of property in mortgage interest and that of owner of property is a process by which property is to be assessed at less than its value. There is only one assessment on two classes of property separated to avoid duplication.

Foreign

London, 18.—The storm in the northeast of Scotland continues. Three vessels have gone ashore; crews of all drowned.

Dublin, 18.—Edward Slattery, recently returned from America, was arrested at Polla, last evening, under the curfew clause of the repression act.

Alexandria, 19.—All the political prisoners at Damietta are released.

London, 19.—The Times Paris correspondent says: France, in declining the proposals of Great Britain relative to the Egyptian debt commission, gave a hint that other posts might be created in Egypt, such as the presidency of a consultative committee, to have similar influence to governmental councils. This would give France an influence, not equal to that of England, but greater than that accorded by the original proposition of England.

Keene on Corners.

New York, 18.—The Senate committee on "corners" in grain, listened to the story of James R. Keene to-day. He said he was a speculator; had been twenty years in business in this city and San Francisco; never knew of any corner of any production that worked injuriously to the public; corners in broad-stuff did not last long enough to work injuriously. Agricultural interests, laborers and others were benefited by the results of corners. Any interference in this matter would be injurious. A coal corner was the only one he remembered that had been injurious to the public. Anthracite companies fixed prices out of all proportion. That corner originated out of the necessities of the corporation; it was overborne with d-bits and had to make a corner to pay dividends and extricate itself from difficulties. He thought the commerce and business of the country could not be carried on without a system of dealing in futures. The "bucket shop" system was demoralizing in its tendency, inasmuch as there was no pretense to deliver the provisions sold; it was simply an act of gambling. A bank kept for the people to play against. There was no element of business in it. The law should suppress these systems. Transactions on the stock and other great exchanges were not done that way at all. People on change and other exchanges, who deal "in futures delivered" agree to pay money when the purchase is received and they must take the deliveries. These were absolutely business transactions. Dealings in futures were things bought outright, not gambling transactions. The change market reflects the public opinion of the country in corn, wheat, pork, etc. Witness never engaged in a corner in all his life. The "Keene corner," he supposed, was so called because he was the central figure in the combination which owned large quantities of wheat. This combination was not formed to corner, but merely to protect themselves from the tender mercies of "bears." The syndicate disbanded long before the wheat was sold. The syndicate held certain amounts of wheat, and combined for common defense, when a hue and cry was raised by the press about a corner. The syndicate had to sell grain at a loss. We never sent agents throughout the country to buy up all the wheat. I should suppose the most wheat we had was between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 bushels. The syndicate was formed in December, and many gentlemen belonging to it dropped out in May. Transportation to the west, although restricted, was not suspended. The price of wheat at Chicago at that time was from 1.15 to 1.20 per bushel. Farmers were certainly benefited by the alleged corner; the canal boat interest affected them beneficially. Perhaps freight rates got no freight, the reason of that is that rates were practically cornered. Such rates as they have now are more disastrous than any corner. The rates were fixed by Commissioner Fink and the railroad men.

The Irish.

Cork, 18.—Parcell opened here to-day, a branch of the Irish National Land League. He explained the purposes of the league was not to serve the interests of any one class, but its efforts would be devoted to national objects and the advancement of the Irish people of every class.

Dublin, 18.—A meeting was held in Mullingar, last night, for the purpose of forming a branch of the Irish National League. Harrington, in a speech, said that the more prosperous farmers must be told that if they did not throw themselves into the new movement, they would have the full force of the laborer's agitation directed against them.

Dublin, 19.—In the police court to-day, Westgate, charged with participation in the Phoenix Park murders, was remanded.

At Longhairs, yesterday, a number of laborers paraded the streets, demanding work or food, and declaring they were starving. They surrounded the residence of Bishop Duggan, who distributed money to them. Great distress prevails in the town.

Mrs. Langtry.

Chicago, 19.—A Commercial Philadelphia dispatch says: The papers to-day print long accounts of the mystery attending the arrival here of Mrs. Langtry yesterday. From the press accounts it appears that her managers and media were in a most perturbed state of mind over her non-arrival, and the former went roaming around from the hotel to the depot and from the depot to the hotel to find her. The cause of the mysterious delay was not explained in any of the morning papers, but it is now explained that the reason she so nearly missed keeping her engagement, was that she was detained until the last train, by a long sitting at breakfast with Frederick Gebhardt, who accompanied her. This discovery has not advanced her in the public esteem; but then it appears, that Mrs. Langtry is becoming more and more indifferent to public opinion. Her baggage reached the hotel at 3 o'clock. There were fifteen enormous trunks and baskets, bearing the name of a well-known champagne house, but the brand was not "Pomery's Seck." It is said that the ladies left the cars at Frankfort Junction and drove thence to the hotel.

Mrs. Washburn.

Milwaukee, 19.—Efforts are making to secure the release of the widow of ex-Governor Washburn from the insane asylum. Since the death of her husband she has been rapidly recovering. This recalls his futile attempts the past year, to get a divorce law passed in the legislature, so as to get a divorce from her. She will now make an effort to get her full portion of the property.
